OBITUARY NOTICE

Mrs. Anna Glover Irvine, At her home, "Oster," Bedford County, Va., after a brief illness, on December 19, 1915, Mrs. ANNA GLOVER, wife of the Rev. Dr. William H. Irvine, passed into the joy awaiting the faithful in Christ.

Since a girl Mrs. Irvine had been a professed believer in the Lord Jesus Christ, and a member of the Episcopal Church. In her constant desire she combined universal kindness with warm personal attachments, and her life was full of tender sympathies and sweet quieties.

Humble, quiet, and unostentatious, it was in seasons of severe trial her piety found its brightest manifestations. In the death of her husband, children, and other loved ones, it was touching to see how she gave up all claim of affectionate sorrow with pious resignation.

Her heart was open to the consolation of the Gospel, and she gathered balm for her wounds from its pages.

For some years previous to her death, she had been a delicate invalid, and her life was practically shut in doors, yet she was content, and no one received their friends and neighbors with a more cheery greeting and brighter countenance.

She was a most devoted, self-sacrificing mother, and truly her home and her children were her joy and happiness.

Several hours before death claimed her, her elder son said: "Mamma, you are going to leave us now, but we will meet you." She replied, "I believe, believe." Without one struggle, but as an infant falling asleep, in the mother's arms, she quietly fell asleep in Jesus' arms. Most emphatically, her end was peaceful.

She was a daughter of the late Colonel James and Margaret Huger Shiner, of Charleston, S. C. She is survived by her sister, Mrs. de Sevigne, of Charleston, and by two following children: Miss B. A. Wilkes, Mrs. Louis M. Mrs. William H. Marable, Elmwood, Va.; Mrs. Jesse C. Saunders, Petersburg, Va.; Mrs. Fannie B. Irving, McDowell, Va.; Dr. Alexander Irving, Evington, Va.; Dr. Hugo G. Gutfreund, Irvington, Williamson, W. Va.
